US Environmental Protection Agency Report as of 4:05 PM EDT, April 5, 2013

Overview: On March 29, 2013 at 1706 EDT, Exxon Mobil Pipeline (RP) reported a release of crude oil from a 20-inch pipeline in Mayflower, AR (Faulkner County). The RP continues to estimate of the amount of oil discharged as between 4,000 - 7,000 barrels (bbl). Approximately 642 cleanup personnel are on scene in addition to approximately 77 federal, state, and local responders. Approximately 19,592 bbl of oil and oily water have been recovered on site via vacuuming operations and placed into frac tanks. There are minimal amounts of pooled oil remaining. 75 percent of impacted soil has been removed from the residential area. Sixteen oiled ducks, eleven turtles, twelve snakes and three muskrats/beavers have been recovered for treatment. Eleven ducks and one nutria have been found dead. Protesters on site attempted to access the cleanup locations.

State, Local and other Federal Agency Actions: The City of Mayflower continues to keep 21 homes evacuated. The U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service (USFW) is providing technical support to the EPA OSC on wetland, habitat, and wildlife issues. ADEQ has posted summary sheets of EPA's and Exxon's air monitoring data as well as interpretations of that data made by Arkansas Department of Health (ADH) on ADEQ's website.

EPA Actions: Six EPA personnel remain on scene including the Federal Incident Commander. An additional EPA PIO has been deployed. EPA continues performing oversight of oil recovery and community air monitoring. EPA provided ADEQ with the latest air quality monitoring data. EPA is collecting samples of oil that will be fingerprinted. Results are expected in a week. EPA gave a media tour to a representative of "Inside Climate".

Media Interest: Media interest remains high.

The HQ EOC will continue to monitor and provided updates as needed.
